

I oppose relaxing the restrictions on ownership of media entities. Diversity of ownership ensures that diverse voices and opinions will be heard, protects free speech, and prevents the consolidation of power in the hands of a few. Remote corporate owners have little interest in providing the information local news consumers need and want to know. Regulating media ownership is vital to the health of our democracy.